(R)-President Tito of Yugoslavia arrived in official visit to the Libyan Jamahiriya, the day JAMA reported. The Yugoslav leader flew in to Algeria. He was met by Libyan leader Gaddafi and given a 21-gun salute. A joint communique at the end of President Tito's Algerian visit said he commended the recent elections in Zimbabwe and expressed support for all liberation movements in the Middle East. He said only a brief reference to the peace treaty, saying that "no separate peace can be achieved in the Middle East until there is a just, comprehensive and lasting settlement. Earlier, addressing the Algerian Marshal Tito received warm applause when he said his firm commitment to the Palestinian cause and his "arrogant attitude."

U.N. votes for S. Africa sanctions
UNITED NATIONS, New York, May 31 (R)—The General Assembly today adopted a resolution calling on the Security Council to impose economic sanctions against South Africa to force its compliance with a U.N.-endorsed independence plan for Namibia (Southwest Africa). The vote was 118 to none with 16 abstentions. Among those abstaining were the United States, Britain, France, Canada and West Germany, authors of the plan, which involves U.N.-supervised elections in the territory. The Security Council, the only body empowered to enact sanctions, is expected to meet some time in June to take up the assembly's recommendation. The resolution, sponsored by more than 80 countries, expressed support for the "legitimacy of the Namibian people's struggle by all means at their disposal against the illegal occupation of their territory by South Africa," and declared that South Africa had "acted deceitfully through unilateral measures and sinister schemes within Namibia" while conducting protracted negotiations over the U.N. independence plan.

NATO endorses Palestinian rights

THE HAGUE, May 31 (R)—Atlantic alliance foreign ministers, for the first time in a NATO document, today called for "respect for the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people." At the same time, France thwarted a move to have the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organisation declare the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty to be an important step towards an overall Middle East settlement, diplomatic sources said.

The U.S. and the other NATO allies favoured such an endorsement of the treaty in the communique agreed at the end of the two-day foreign ministers' meeting here. But Mr. Jean Francois Poncelet, the French foreign minister, told U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that it was not included. France wanted a separate paragraph in the communique to set out its dissenting point of view.

The communique paid tribute to the efforts of President Carter, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, but stopped short of any direct reference to the treaty signed earlier this year. It said a lasting peace in the region called for all parties concerned, including Palestinian representatives, to take part in working out and implementing a comprehensive settlement.

This must be based on 1967 and 1973 United Nations Security Council resolutions, which called for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories, and on "respect for the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people". Earlier communiques issued by the NATO alliance have not referred to the Palestinians' "legitimate rights".

Diplomatic sources said Mr. Vance saw the NATO reference to Palestinian legitimate rights as a recognition of Middle East realities. For many years the U.S. refused to refer to anything more than "Palestinian aspirations."

Mr. Vance, who briefed his NATO colleagues on his talks in the Middle East with President Sadat and Mr. Begin, told a news conference the treaty was a cornerstone of a comprehensive peace. "We are now dealing with the West Bank and Gaza. We must begin to wrestle with the Palestinian question and resolve it in all its aspects," he added.

Mr. Vance said the NATO communique went no further than his speech in Beersheba last Friday.

Meanwhile, the United States today received full backing from its NATO partners for the strategic arms limitation treaty which President Carter and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev are to sign in Vienna next month.

A communique issued at the end of the foreign ministers' meeting said the ministers welcomed the agreement. "They agreed that the balanced limitation of the nuclear weapons capabilities of the Soviet Union and the United States will make an important contribution to East-West relations and security," it said.

NATO endorsement should strengthen President Carter's hand in his wide-ranging summit talks with President Brezhnev in mid-June, and should also ease the U.S. president's uphill task in getting the new SALT agreement ratified by the U.S. Senate where it faces strong opposition.

Yamani rebukes West on energy

PARIS, May 31 (R)—Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmad Zaki Yamani today told the West, particularly the United States, to cut oil consumption or face a recession or even a deep depression.

"I expect a recession," he said in a French television interview. "It looks so clear to me. I do not think you will avoid it." The Saudi minister said the West had not learnt its lesson from the 1973 international oil crisis. "Right now there is another lesson and you're trying to avoid the meaning of this lesson," he said. Sheikh Yamani said the West must reduce its oil consumption to help Saudi Arabia carry out its moderate policy on oil pricing.

"We did our best to maintain the price of oil at a lower level," he said. "But it seems that the price of oil is going up against our will and because of your behaviour as a consumer. Because you are not doing anything to reduce your consumption."

When asked whether Saudi Arabia was compelled to go along with other OPEC (Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries) member states in raising the price of oil, he replied: "We are compelled by the market forces, by the law of supply and demand."

He added: "The price of oil is going up in the market not by the decision of OPEC or of Saudi Arabia. It is by your own consumption, by your own decision."

Sheikh Yamani said Saudi Arabia was losing at least $20 million a day because the price of its oil was lower than that of other OPEC member states. He said his country would be hurt by a Western recession.

"Of course I feel worried," he said. "And of course this will have a side effect in Saudi Arabia. The more we lose on our assets abroad, the more we have a resistance at home to increase our production. Saudis are telling us: 'why do you produce that much? you accumulate assets and you lose. Leave the oil in the ground and it will appreciate far more than anything you can get from your investments abroad'."

An OPEC spokesman told the UNCTAD conference in Manila today (see story below) that high oil prices and supply shortages have been caused by stockpiling in the industrialised countries and profiteering by international oil companies. Mr. Adnan Al Janabi, head of OPEC's economics and finance department said output from the OPEC countries was higher in the first quarter of this year than in the same period last year, despite the Iranian shut-down.

The decision by consumer countries to build up their crude and gas oil stockpiles before next winter had caused an artificial shortage and forced up market prices, Mr. Janabi said.

At the same time, the major oil companies had made billions of dollars in profits from buying supplies at official OPEC prices and selling at much higher market prices.

"Almost every trader in the oil business is getting rich at the expense of someone or other," the OPEC economist added. Strongly defending the oil exporters against consumer country criticism, Mr. Janabi said the 13 OPEC states were leading givers of aid to the developing world, were producing more oil — and in some cases earning more surplus income — than was good for their own economies.

In Washington, President Carter today called oil industry officials to the White House for talks on a new campaign to overcome fuel shortages and to convince Americans of the need to conserve energy.

The session with industry officials started a meeting that will end tomorrow when the president hears views of consumer and environmental groups.

The industry and the consumer groups are at odds over what is to blame for shortages of domestic and industrial fuel and queues at filling stations.

Yesterday, the White House accused one leading oil refiner of violating the president's voluntary guideline to keep price rises to 0.5 per cent above the last two years and said other oil firms would receive similar notice.

The oil industry says rising prices and diminished supplies, mainly because of the cutback in Iranian production, are among factors causing problems. Consumer groups, however, blame the companies for holding back supplies to push up prices.

The president, frustrated by congressional refusal to grant him standby powers to ration petrol and deplete of other energy proposals, wants Americans to cut oil consumption from the present 20 to 21 million barrels a day. Nearly half of this is imported.

In Tehran, the National Iranian Oil Company today announced a three per cent increase on the price of its oil this year, bringing the price of a barrel of Iranian light crude to $18.47 and the price of a barrel of heavy crude to $17.74.

Security Council in special session U.N. reports truce in south Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS, New York, May 31 (R) — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim told the Security Council today a ceasefire had gone into effect in an area of southern Lebanon where U.N. troops have recently been caught up in exchanges between rival forces.

He said firing, which intensified in the past three days, ceased at 8 a.m. local time today after U.N. commanders in the area mediated between Lebanese right-wing Christian militia and Palestinian forces.

Mr. Waldheim said he had called the chief of U.N. peacekeeping operations in the Middle East, Lieutenant-General Ensi Silavuo, to New York for consultations.

He made his statement as the Council met at Lebanon's request to discuss the situation in the southern part of the country.

Mr. Waldheim said the Lebanese militia agreed to the ceasefire after the Palestinians, to whom he referred only as "armed elements," stopped shooting.

The Security Council heard statements by Lebanon, Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organisation about the trouble in southern Lebanon, but took no formal action.

It adjourned without setting a date for any further meeting on the subject.

Lebanese representative Ghassan Tuani, called for a Council injunction to stop all acts of hostility against Lebanon and put an end to Israeli violations of Lebanese sovereignty.

He said the Christians in southern Lebanon were first and foremost Lebanese citizens. They could not be looked upon as "accessories to Israel's strategic interests". Their only future lay in Lebanon's restored independence and sovereignty.

Lebanon would never allow that they or any part of the south be detached from its "historic body politic," he added.

Israeli ambassador Yehuda Blum said the situation in southern Lebanon could not be detached from that in the country as a whole.

Arab cultural centre early today, according to Persian sources in the provincial capital. Only a few shots were fired and there were no reports of casualties, the sources said.

Khorramshahr was divided into opposing armed camps at nightfall today. Arab militants held positions on the west bank of the Karun river and in the northern section of the city, while youthful guardsmen, many hiding behind white masks and hoods, held the city centre.

Meanwhile, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's office in Qom announced tonight that the 79-year-old unofficial head of state had cancelled all private and public engagements for the next week because of tiredness. It gave no further details.

Iranian troops keep peace in Arab area
Khorramshahr, Iran, May 31 (Agencies)—Iran's authorities today sought to crush ethnic Arab unrest in the southwestern province of Khuzestan, centre of the country's oil industry.

Armoured columns of troops rumbled through this Gulf port to reassert government authority after two days of fighting between the local Arab and Persian populations. But bursts of intermittent heavy firing could still be heard in this city of 150,000.

Arab sources acknowledged government forces were in control of the key points of Khorramshahr. Diplomatic sources in Khorramshahr said at least 100 people had died in the fighting, though the official toll was put at 21 dead and 76 injured.

Aides of local Arab spiritual leader Sheikh Mohammad Taher Al Shobeir Khaghani said many people were killed this morning and that the casualty toll had risen to 200 dead and 600 injured. The sources said Ayatollah Khaghani had contacted Islamic religious leaders in Tehran and Qom to obtain a ceasefire, but "so far, there have been no negotiations."

Lately, he said, Israel had received information that the PLO had decided to step up "violence" in the south and this was undoubtedly the cause of the heightened tension of the last few days. Israel sincerely desired peace with and in Lebanon, he said.

Mr. Hassan Abdel Rahman, for the PLO, pledged the organisation's support for Lebanese sovereignty, territorial integrity and unity. The Palestinians were there not from choice but because they were expelled from Palestine, he said.

The autonomy that now was offered them was at best that of an American Indian reservation, and they would never accept that, Mr. Abdel Rahman said.

Meanwhile, Mr. Nayef Hawatmeh, chief of the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine (DFLP), said in a statement to Reuters in Beirut that the situation in the volatile Lebanese-Israeli border region required a new type of action.

"Meetings are taking place between all the Palestinian and Lebanese nationalist (leftist) forces to work out a unified plan of confronting the Saudi Hadlad protectorate," he said.

Israeli planes flew over refugee camps in the Sidon area of south Lebanon today, official Lebanese sources said.

But shelling of the Tyre area stopped early today, the sources added. Thousands of civilians have fled their homes in south Lebanon after more than five days of artillery duels between rightist militias and Palestinian guerrillas.

Lebanese President Elias Sarkis met government leaders and Mr. Sami Khathib, commander of the Arab Deterrent Force (ADF), in Beirut to discuss the situation in the south.

Official sources said the Nabatiyeh area, a stronghold of Palestinians and their leftist allies, was relatively quiet.

Israeli MP accused of paying for votes

TEL AVIV, May 31 (R) — A ballot-rigging scandal shook the Israeli Knesset today, with charges that one of its most flamboyant members, Shmuel Flatto-Sharon, offered extensive bribes to secure votes for his one-man party.

The Justice Ministry published a list of five charges which it said would be filed against Mr. Flatto-Sharon once he was stripped of his parliamentary immunity. It will now ask the Knesset to remove the politician's immunity.

Accused with Mr. Flatto-Sharon were two of his aides. One of them, campaign manager Ya'acov Halfon, said that if the charges went ahead he would prove that what he was accused of doing for Mr. Flatto-Sharon he had done previously for other more established politicians.

Mr. Flatto-Sharon's lawyer said the charges could "open a Pandora's box by proving that Flatto-Sharon did only what other politicians have done."

Mr. Flatto-Sharon came to Israel in 1972 from France — shortly before French authorities began investigating his business affairs. A French court is now trying him in his absence for alleged fraud and tax evasion.

It was after the French government sought his extradition that Mr. Flatto-Sharon stood for parliament as an independent in the 1977 elections. His campaign was frankly based on his need to acquire parliamentary immunity in order to escape extradition. His appeal to the electorate capitalised on a tide of anti-French public opinion then running in Israel over France's release of a captured Palestinian commando, Abu Daud.

Once in parliament, Mr. Flatto-Sharon took little part in mainstream politics. He captured attention with a number of bizarre campaigns, the latest being his claim that he had assigned a private squad of commandos to arrest the ousted Ugandan leader Idi Amin. His private lifestyle is impressive: he lives in a mansion in an exclusive suburb on the outskirts of Tel Aviv.

The five charges against Mr. Flatto-Sharon allege that he solicited votes by offering to let 15,000 apartments around the country at cheap rents to young couples, offering payments to election day activists, offering payments to heads of ethnic communities, offering money to a boxing club owner in return for persuading local residents to vote for him, and offering funds to a municipal political group in exchange for help in the parliamentary election.

UNRWA Day

Packed with activities and just the right spirit

By Serene R. Farraj

Special to The Jordan Times

AMMAN, May 31--Under the patronage of Her Majesty Queen Noor, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees, (UNRWA) Jordan branch, sponsored an Activities Day for UNRWA schools at UNRWA's Amman Training Centre near Na'ur.

It was a full day indeed, beginning at 9 a.m. and going on till 10 p.m. Athletic and gymnastic displays were interspersed with folk dances. In one touching display, Palestinian students arranged themselves into symbols of a crescent and a cross with one little girl, dressed all in white, carrying an olive branch.

Basketball, volleyball and table tennis matches were held. All-day indoor exhibitions were also being staged with displays of arts and crafts, educational games, visual aids, children's books, handicrafts and home economics. One of the most impressive sections was an exhibition of maps showing the establishment of Israeli settlements in Palestine from 1887 to the present.

UNRWA students also staged plays and sang to entertain the audience. For the young at heart, there was a puppet show and children's films.

The special event of the day was the fund-raising marathon run. Fifty runners including UNRWA staff members, refugee students, members of Youth Activities Centres from camps in Jordan and Mr. John Tanner, Director of UNRWA Affairs, Jordan, ran around the 200 metre ATC track to raise money for special activities for refugee children on the Occasion of the International Year of the Child. His Highness Crown Prince Hassan, who was expected to participate in the run, apologised because he felt exhausted following yesterday's polo match which his team won, and sent in a donation of J.D. 500 instead. The winners of the marathon run were as follows: Mr. Majid Ismail 26 Km. Mr. Hussein Ashour 25-200 Km. Mr. Yusef Abu Shaqra 22 Km. Mr. Mohammad Abdul Qader 21 Km. Mr. Majid Matar 18 Km.

The first four winners were from the Amman Training Centre and the fifth from the Ashrafieh school.

The results of the matches were as follows:

Basketball:

The Irbid teachers team defeated the Amman teachers team. The Irbid girls team defeated the Amman girls team. The Irbid boys team defeated the Amman boys team.

Table Tennis:

Wihdat defeated Nuzha.

Volleyball:

Amman students defeated Baq'a students. UNRWA students defeated UNRWA teachers.

The final proceeds from the run had not been calculated at the time we went to press, but Mr. Tanner estimated the approximately 500 sponsors would contribute a total of about JD 2,500.

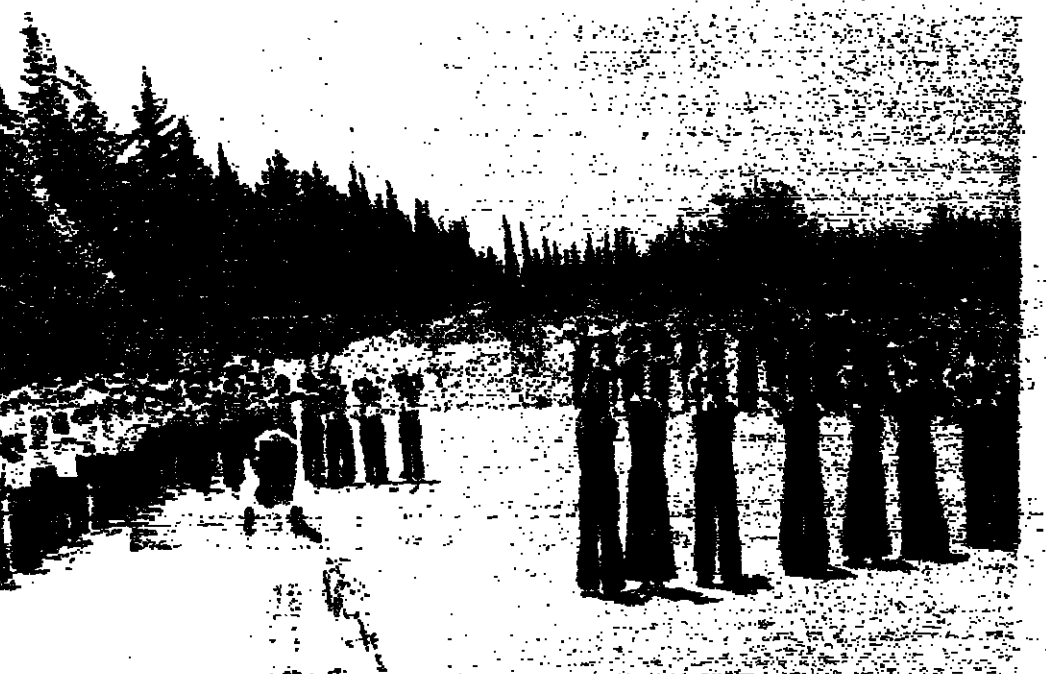

The proceeds will go to finance special activities for refugee children, such as summer schools for orphans and will pay for school libraries in the camps.

Three of the contestants head for a neck-and-neck finish.

Spain, Jordan finalise details for Nabataean exhibit, Citadel digs

By Norah Barger
Special to the Jordan Times

AMMAN, May 31 -- Spain will receive an unexpected archaeological treat from Jordan this fall. The Department of Antiquities is adding over thirty artifacts to the touring Nabataean exhibit when it opens this September in Madrid. Prof. Martin Almagro of the National Museum of Madrid, which will house the exhibit, was in Amman this week to discuss the additions with Dr. Adnan Hadidi, director of the Department of Antiquities.

Dr. Hadidi told the Jordan Times today that the exhibition opened in Lyon, France last year with additional Nabataean pieces on loan from the Louvre. The display moved to the Palace of Tokyo, a Paris Museum, in May last year. Dr. Hadidi added that response to the exhibit, which will close there shortly, has been "very enthusiastic. There has been a record number of visitors."

This week he and Prof. Almagro discussed augmenting the touring exhibition with artifacts contributed by Jordan, as Spain prefers, rather than by the Louvre. The two men accordingly have arranged the insurance and shipping for the Nabataean inscriptions, ceramic figurines, lamps, glassware and sculpture to be sent to Madrid in the first week of September in time for the mid-month opening of the exhibition there.

The National Museum of Madrid and the Department of Antiquities are also collaborating on a bilingual Spanish - Arabic catalogue of the artifacts for the three month exhibit there.

The display will open again in Brussels in January, 1980 and will be moved on to Vienna in April. Dr. Hadidi said that requests for the exhibit have been received from Basel, Switzerland and Bucharest, Romania.

He and Prof. Almagro also discussed arrangements for the University of Madrid's participation in excavations and restorations this summer at the Amman Citadel.

In early July, Dr. Antonio Almagro, Prof. Almagro's son, and Dr. Hussein Qandil, of the Department of Antiquities, begin a joint restoration on the Umayyad "palace," the most prominent structure in the Citadel. The department bears all the expenses. Dr. Hadidi told the Jordan Times the structure is unique as it is one of the Umayyad in Amman. When the work is completed in two or three years, the department will publish a monumental publication in Arabic, Spanish, English, French.

Last summer, a team headed by Emilio Olivari from the Madrid museum excavated graphic evidence adjoining "palace" that conclusively as an Umayyad building around 700 A.D. He will be the Citadel excavation site summer for a second and final season. According to the agreement reached this week between Almagro and Dr. Hadidi, the department will pay the airfare, Olivari and his two assistants and will cover the costs incurred during the excavation.

Head in the sand

PRESIDENT CARTER has often been accused of indecisiveness and of "leading from behind", but it now appears that he has decisively executed a sharp volte-face and is bravely leading the American people straight to the rear.

The latest American government scheme for meeting the energy crisis appears to be the result either of incredible callousness or monumental stupidity. The U.S. government has offered the big oil companies an "emergency subsidy" of five dollars for every barrel they import of refined oil products, mainly diesel fuel and home heating oil.

One reason these products are in short supply, of course, is that U.S. refineries have given themselves over primarily to producing petrol for cars, shortages of which--due to the gap in Iranian crude oil output earlier this year--have caused long queues and short tempers at American filling stations.

The administration's emergency measures not only are treating the symptom rather than the disease, but also go against the whole purpose of the energy programme which the administration is having such trouble getting through Congress.

At a time when the oil companies are theoretically threatened with new taxes on their "windfall profits" and other measures designed to lighten their responsibility for finding a way out of America's chronic energy problem, they are now to be rewarded for going out and purchasing oil products which other customers in other countries might need more urgently. At a time when the American consumer is being exhorted to make sacrifices in his life-style and to curb his appetite for fuel, he is offered an additional cushion against reality.

At a time when the entire world, notably America's European allies, as well as its oil suppliers in the Middle East, is looking to the U.S. leadership for a sign that America is ready to give up its gas guzzlers, lower its thermostats, turn down its air conditioning, crack down on its oil profiteers and otherwise demonstrate a readiness to play a role in thwarting a Western recession which will rebound unpleasantly on all the rest of us, we are instead offered a vision of a profligate and wasteful nation with its head firmly buried in the sand.

The latest fiasco comes as the U.S. trade balance deteriorates still further because of continually rising crude oil imports. Given its latest move, the U.S. should expect little sympathy from the oil exporters when it comes to either prices or production levels. The rest of the world is getting tired of being made to pay and to suffer for America's addiction to imported oil.

ARAB PRESS COMMENTARY

AL RA'I THURSDAY CONDEMNS the continued Israeli aggressions against south Lebanon, and says that these aggressions are aimed at achieving the following purposes: first, the clearing of south Lebanon of its Arab population to give Israeli agents a free hand in the area; second, the imposing of Israel's political will on the Lebanese government as part of a move coordinated with the Phalangist-Chamounite coalition; third, forcing Lebanon to conclude a peace treaty with Israel, an objective which requires the withdrawal of Syrian forces from Lebanon as a step to containing and then liquidating the Palestinian issue; and fourth, isolating the U.N. peace-keeping forces and neutralising their role in south Lebanon.

Believing that the depopulation process in south Lebanon has already begun, the paper documents its assertion by stating that over 50,000 Arabs have been forced to leave their homes in Tyre as a result of Israeli shelling and encouragement by the U.N. forces.

The paper hopes that Arab leaders, particularly the Syrians, are "aware of the dimensions of the plot, and capable of foiling it."

AL DUSTOUR criticises President Carter's recent statements calling for sympathy for the Palestinian issue, and wonders who the president is addressing: "Is it the Israelis who are waging a war of annihilation against the Palestinians in south Lebanon or the U.S. administration which is doing so by providing the Israelis with the weapons to carry out the war?"

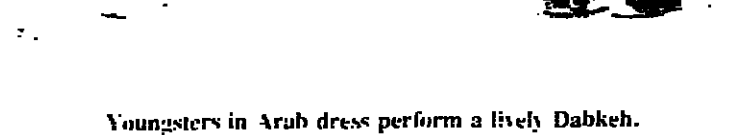

Condemning President Carter for restricting the Palestinians' right to determine their own destiny, the paper rejects his call as being "inadequate to handle the (Palestinian) issue in its political context."

The Palestinians do not need President Carter's sympathy nor anybody else's. They have rights and their problem is a political one which cannot be depicted as a humanitarian issue to be solved by sympathy, the paper says.

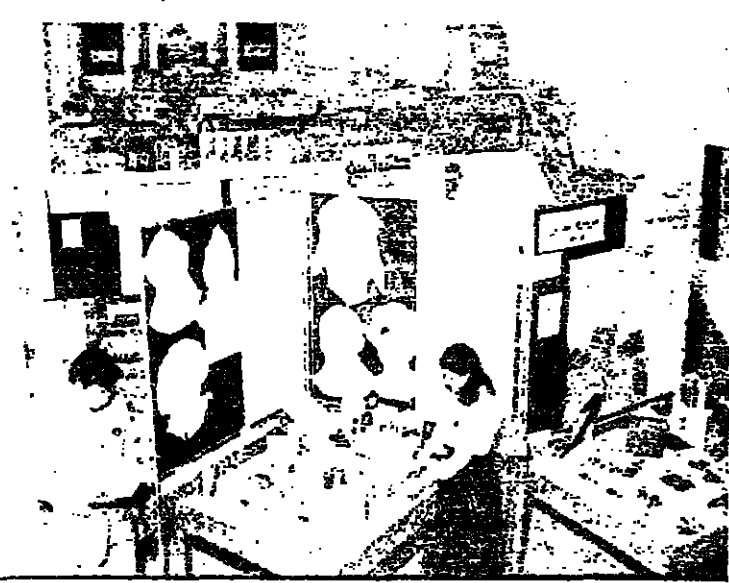

The paper further criticises President Carter for backing down on his old promises to grant the Palestinians their rights, and says that his statement clearly represents the reality of U.S. intentions toward the Palestinians.

Information minister receives Dutch parliament delegation

AMMAN, May 31 (JNA) -- Minister of Information Adnan Abu Odeh today explained to a visiting Dutch parliamentary delegation Jordan's position on international efforts to achieve a solution to the Middle East problem.

Water prices to increase from June 1

AMMAN, May 31 -- The Cabinet has decided to increase the prices of water in the various parts of the kingdom from June 1, 1979.

In Amman and its suburbs, the rate will be 80 fils for the first 20 cubic metres; 120 fils for the first 40 metres; and 250 fils for the first 100 metres. Al Rai newspaper reported today.

In the other areas of the kingdom, the rate will be 80 fils for the first five cubic metres; 140 fils for the first 15 metres; 240 fils for the first 25 metres and 300 fils for consumption in excess of that, the paper added.

Kuwaiti finance minister due today

AMMAN, May 31 (JNA) -- Kuwaiti Finance Minister Abdul Rahman Atiq is due here tomorrow at the head of an official delegation for a week-long visit to Jordan.

He will have talks with Finance Minister Mohammad Dabbas on ways of strengthening economic and trade relations between Jordan and Kuwait, as well as exploring the possible establishment of joint trade projects between them.

According to a Finance Ministry source, the talks are a follow-up on discussions which Mr. Dabbas held during his visit to Kuwait earlier this month.

Stressing that Jordan seeks a comprehensive solution to the problem to be based on U.N. resolutions, Mr. Abu Odeh pointed out that Israel has attempted to undermine the basic principles included in resolutions 242 and 338 by claiming the resolutions constitute a pre-condition for negotiations on a settlement.

Over the past twelve years, Israel has been procrastinating and stalling with the object of creating a de facto situation in the occupied Arab territories, Mr. Abu Odeh said.

Explaining Jordan's refusal to be involved in negotiations related to the Camp David agreements, Mr. Abu Odeh said those agreements do not provide for the participation of all parties including the Palestine Liberation Organisation nor do they define a final aim, which, to Jordan, should be complete Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territories, including Arab Jerusalem, and security for all parties in the region in a framework of durable peace.

The Information Minister also said that EEC countries can play an effective role in bringing about a peaceful settlement to the Middle East problem.

The two-man delegation, led by the chairman of the parliamentary committee of the Dutch Christian Democratic Party, Mr. Jan Scholten, arrived here earlier for a brief visit and met with the acting speaker of the Upper House of Parliament, Mr. Sa'd Jum'a, for a review of the region's problems and the Arab stand on the Egyptian-Israeli separate peace agreement.

Jordanian-Syrian Industrial Co. to study car assembly plant feasibility

AMMAN, May 31 (JNA) -- The Jordanian-Syrian Industrial Company concluded here today a board meeting during which several company by-laws and regulations were approved.

The company is conducting a feasibility study to set up a joint Jordanian-Syrian-Iraqi car assembly plant to cover the local needs of the three countries. Industry and Trade Minister Nijmeddin Darraj told JNA today.

The company will contact several advisory firms specialised in the car and ball-bearing industry as a first step towards implementing the project, JNA learned.

Public Security announces system for getting West Bank permits

AMMAN, May 31 (JNA) -- The Public Security Directorate has decided to issue permits to Jordanians wishing to visit the West Bank as of next Sunday, in an attempt to regulate travel there.

Citizens holding temporary passports can get their permits from the same offices from which they got their passports, police sources said.

The sources further added that Palestinians living in Amman and holding Palestinian travel documents who wish to go to the West Bank via King Hussein bridge can get their permits from the Arwa Bint Al Azwar school in Jabal Amman, and from the Jamil Shukur school in Jabal Luweibdeh for citizens wishing to leave via Prince Mohammad Bridge. Citizens living in Zarqa, Irbid and Salt can get their permits from the police departments in their areas while citizens living in areas where there are no centres to issue permits can get them from Amman.

Mental patient murdered

FUHEIS, May 31 -- A murder took place here yesterday in which a 23-year-old man, identified only by his initials A.A., shot his brother-in-law, Mr. M. Ibrahim, who was receiving treatment for schizophrenia at the town's asylum.

Jordan, Algeria sign 3-year cultural agreement

AMMAN, May 31 (JNA) -- A three-year cultural cooperation agreement was signed at the Ministry of Education today between Algeria and Jordan.

The agreement provides for the development of cultural and scientific relations between the two countries; the exchange of expertise in the fields of education, fine arts and physical education; the Arabisation of curricula; the exchange of scholarships and teachers; and the drawing up of a system for the equalisation of certificates and diplomas as well as the standardisation of terms in the various fields.

Algerian Minister of Higher Education and Scientific Research Abdul Haq Berarhi signed the agreement for Algeria while Education Minister Dr. Abdul Salam Al Majali signed for Jordan.

Kaddoumi due in Amman

AMMAN, May 31 (JNA) -- The director of the Political Department of the Palestinian Liberation Organisation (PLO), Mr. Farouk Kaddoumi, was expected here today to pursue Jordanian-Palestinian dialogue started last year, according to the daily Al Akhbar newspaper quoting PLO sources here.

The sources expect the visit to result in the formation of a joint committee to coordinate political affairs and information efforts of Jordan and the PLO and another committee to organise the flow of aid to the population of the occupied Arab territories.

The two sides are also expected to discuss the setting up of a joint team to tour Arab states with the object of urging them to speed up the fulfilment of their commitments to an Arab fund set up by the Baghdad summit in Baghdad to support the Arab population of the occupied territories, the sources said. The fund's capital, as endorsed by the Arab summit, is $150 million.

Badran, N. Yemeni foreign minister discuss cooperation

AMMAN, May 31 (JNA) -- The Middle East issue and Jordanian-Yemeni cooperation in various fields were the main subjects discussed here today between Prime Minister Mudar Badran and the visiting prime minister of the Yemen Arab Republic, Mr. Abdul Aziz Abdul Ghani.

Taking part in the talks, held at the prime minister's office, were Jordanian officials and the North Yemeni delegation accompanying Mr. Abdul Ghani. Mr. Abdul Ghani voiced his country's support for Jordan's stand on the Middle East issue and lauded the role His Majesty King Hussein has played in maintaining Arab solidarity in the face of the challenges and dangers confronting the Arab nation. He also expressed deep gratitude for the mediation efforts launched jointly by Jordan, Syria and Iraq to bring about reconciliation between the two Yemens.

The North Yemeni Prime Minister expressed the hope that there will be Jordanian-Yemeni cooperation in the educational fields. He laid particular stress on his country's need for Jordanian school and university teachers.

Furthermore, Mr. Abdul Ghani said, his country is interested in increasing bilateral trade and cooperation in the fields of health, information and security.

He expressed the hope that Jordan will help establish a faculty of medicine at Samaa University and grant Yemeni patients treatment facilities at Jordanian hospitals.

Prime Minister Mudar Badran expressed Jordan's willingness to help North Yemen in various fields and suggested the formation of joint committees to plan bilateral cooperation.

Mr. Badran also emphasised Jordan's eagerness to participate in inter-Arab cooperation, the building up of indigenous Arab strength at this critical stage, and reiterated Jordan's adherence to a policy calling for full Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territories and the safeguarding of the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people. The prime minister also stressed Jordan's opposition to all agreements which do not fulfil these requirements for a just and comprehensive peace.

At the conclusion of the talks, Mr. Abdul Ghani extended an invitation to Mr. Badran to visit the Yemen Arab Republic. The invitation was accepted and a date for the visit is to be fixed at a later date. The North Yemeni premier is due to leave for Baghdad on Saturday.

House Speaker reports N. Korea visit 'useful'

AMMAN, May 31 (JNA) -- Speaker of the Upper House of Parliament Bahjat Talhoumi last night described the visit he has just concluded to the Peoples Democratic Republic of Korea as successful and said he expected it would prove to have been positive and useful.

Speaking upon his return here at the end of his trip, which also took him to the USSR, Mr. Talhoumi said the subjects of his talks with North Korean President Kim Il Sung and other government leaders centred on Jordan's Middle East policy based on the resolutions of the Baghdad summit.

He also expressed gratitude to North Korea for its support of Arab rights. Mr. Talhoumi said he was carrying a valuable gift from the North Korean president to His Majesty King Hussein and Her Majesty Queen Noor.

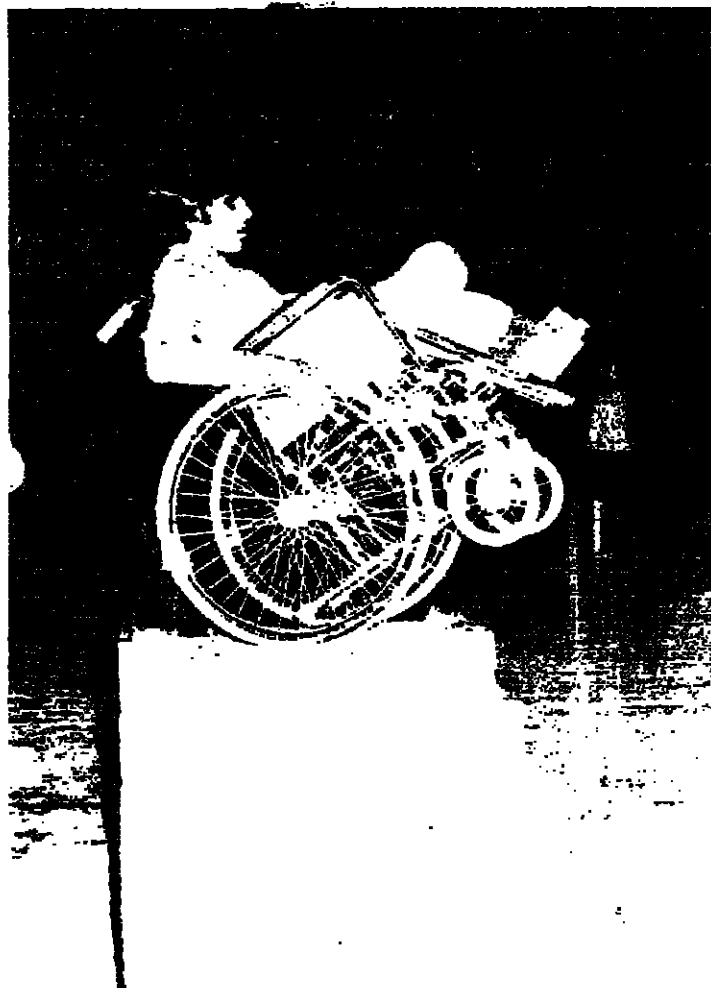

Mr. Talhoumi said that during his visit to the Soviet Union, he held talks with members of the Supreme Soviet on Arab and parliamentary issues.

On his way to the USSR, Mr. Talhoumi stopped in Damascus where he held talks with the speaker of the Syrian People's Council and the president of the Palestinian National Council on Arab and parliamentary affairs. He discussed the same topics with the deputy speaker of the Lebanese parliament during a stopover in Beirut.

Sports day for handicapped a success

By Sara O'Neil

Special to the Jordan Times

A physically handicapped boy demonstrates his skill in manoeuvring his wheelchair in a daring display which involved rolling up a ramp and down three steps.

AMMAN, May 31 -- A very special heart-warming event took place yesterday afternoon at the gymnasium of the University of Jordan. For the first time in Jordan, 130 handicapped children from all thirteen centres in the country (both government and privately run) assembled in one place to participate in a national sports day.

The sports day was organised by the Department of Special Education and Rehabilitation within the Department of Social Affairs under the patronage of the Minister of Labour Isam Ajlouni.

Fadwa Murad of the Department of Special Education told the Jordan Times how encouraged she was by the success of this event which brought such happiness to the children. The aim of the sports day was to give the handicapped children a chance to participate in activities that normal children enjoy and to give them a sense of accomplishment and pride. As a result of yesterday's success similar events may be incorporated in the different centres' activities in the future.

Four categories of handicapped children took part: deaf, blind, physically handicapped and mentally retarded. Different kinds of races and team events were organised for each category and for different age groups. The blind children, for instance, succeeded quite admirably in a running, skipping race and a sack race and presented two attractive dabkeh dances.

Gymnastic and aerobic shows were put on by the deaf, and the mentally retarded took part in an obstacle race which involved scrambling through tunnels and over hurdles, as well as other events including a very entertaining game of musical chairs.

Wheelchair-bound children amazed the spectators with a quite daring display of skill in manoeuvring their chairs during a race which necessitated rolling up a ramp, turning round and executing a precarious descent down three steps on the other side.

The winner of each event received a gold medal and all participants received silver medals from the minister of labour. Cups donated by a variety of government departments and organisations were presented to each centre as a token of support and to encourage the centres to keep up their good work in special education.

Another ambitious event, this time by deaf children, who are seen here in a three tier pyramid formation. The top child unfurls a picture of the King.

Nottingham Forest wins European Cup

MUNICH, West Germany, May 31 (R)—Trevor Francis, Nottingham Forest's £1 million striker, kept England at the top of European club soccer and dashed the modest hopes of Swedish champions Malmö here last night. An epic 30-metre goal scoring sprint by Francis gave Forest a 1-0 win in the one of most memorable European Cup finals of the tournament's 24-year history.

The result delighted the 20,000 Forest supporters in Munich's Olympic Stadium and looked like consigning underdogs Malmö to oblivion. "Nobody will remember us in two weeks," said the Swedish club's London-born manager Bob Houghton.

Forest scraped home when Francis surged down the field and headed the ball into the roof of the net just before halftime. Forest manager Brian Clough left the pitch after the final whistle, saying his club's biggest achievement was winning the English First Division title last year, immediately after gaining promotion from the Second Division.

But Forest certainly earned the title. They beat reigning champions Liverpool in the first round and bounced back to overcome West German favourites Cologne on their own pitch to win their semi-final tie on a 4-3 aggregate.

Malmö's manager Houghton said: "Forest are a very good side—technically much better than us. If we were to win, we had to catch them on a bad day and we would have had to have had a good day."

Malmö did not have a good day, perhaps because their first choice centre backs Bo Larsson and Roy Andersson both had to stay home as a result of knee injuries and because their most experienced player, Staffan Tapper, had to limp off the field in the first half. Tapper, veteran of two Swedish World Cup final campaigns, injured a foot in training on the eve of the match.

English Country Cricket Championship

LONDON, May 31 (R)—Sylvester Clarke, Surrey's 24-year-old Barbadian pace bowler, whipped out five Northamptonshire batsmen for 55 runs today in one of only two English Country Cricket Championship matches not washed out by rain. With off-spinner Pat Pocock claiming four for 43, Northamptonshire slumped to 157 all out after being 128 for two. It would have been much worse but for a superb innings of 93 by Wayne Larkins, who cut and drove 11 fours. Clarke took four wickets for four runs in 24 deliveries and Pocock had three in 21 balls after an afternoon downpour. But both had earlier been tamed by Larkins' great stroke play. Andy Stovold, scoring 46, and Zaheer Abbas, 22, figured in a stand of 49 for Gloucestershire against Lancashire before rain ended play.

World Cricket Cup qualifying matches

BIRMINGHAM, England, May 31 (R)—Rain washed out a play yesterday in four of five scheduled World Cricket Cup qualifying matches and also made a mockery of the other game. Argentina and Papua New Guinea, hoping to produce a test after the weather had delayed the start of their match, agreed to reduce the number of overs from 60 to 40 a side. But with Argentina on 85 for four, to which Michael Ryan contributed 2 runs, the rain came down again and forced the match to be abandoned. Like the teams which could not get in any action at the sides earned two points each. The qualifying competition which should have been an intriguing curtain-raiser for next month's finals of the competition, has been ruined by rain from the start. Yesterday's fresh catalogue of abandoned matches added to the misery of the countries taking part. Two places in the finals are at stake. It now seems that the ultimate placings in the three qualifying groups will be determined as much by the weather as by actual results. Turning their backs on the soggy pitches yesterday, the cricketers of Malaysia and Fiji went on guided tour of Warwick Castle, and the teams from the United States and the Netherlands played squash. The matches completely washed out were Malaysia v. Fiji, the Netherlands v. United States, Bermuda v. Singapore and Wales v. Sri Lanka.

Japan hosts Asian track and field meet

TOKYO, May 31 (AP)—A four-day Asian track and field meet, the biggest athletic event to be held in Japan since the 1964 Tokyo Olympics, opened yesterday with Japan favoured to take the most gold medals. Held under the auspices of the Asian Amateur Athletic Association (A.A.A.A.), 298 athletes have gathered representing 19 nations. Thirty-five of the top participants of each event will be selected for the 1979 World Cup Track and Field Championships at Montreal, Canada, August 24-26. The competition has not been recognised by the International Amateur Athletic Association because Israel, a member of the 34-nation Asian body, was not invited. Also absent is India's Hari Chand winner of the 5,000 and 10,000 metre events in the Bangkok Games. Indian official said Chand is not attending because he is training for the Moscow Olympics. Gopal Sahas, India's 3,000 metre steeple-chase runner, silver medal winner in Bangkok, said he thought his country would take at least a eight gold medals over the next four days and would be placed tenth overall. "We've been training really hard for this event," he said. Japan is fielding the largest team with 75 members, India 40 members, and China 30.

A prince of a sportsman

Prince Philip in control of a team of the Queen's bays as he steers his four-in-hand to second place in the International Driving Grand Prix at the Royal Windsor Horse Show. On the shooting brake manufactured to his own specifications, he is seen negotiating a watery obstacle during the three-day event. Competitive driving is one of the Prince's favourite sports. # U.S. defends emergency subsidy on imported fuels against protest by EEC

WASHINGTON, May 31 (R) -- The United States is defending its introduction of an emergency subsidy for American imports of diesel fuel and home heating oil after accusations by the European Common Market that the measure is inflationary.

The Common Market's Energy Commissioner Guido Brunner called U.S. Ambassador Dean Hinton to his office in Brussels yesterday to protest against the programme.

An EEC spokesman said the subsidy would lead to international speculation and price rises.

The subsidy of $5 a barrel on imports of what are called "middle distillates," mainly diesel fuel and heating oil, was announced last Thursday. It was made retroactive to May 1 and will end on Sept. 1.

The Energy Department in Washington defended the U.S. Government against EEC criticism that it was forcing other states to share the effects of America's internal problems.

A department spokesman said the programme was not designed to take oil from Europe, but to boost imports from other areas like the Caribbean.

The shortage of middle distillates in the United States at present is serious, the department said. A major factor leading to the scarcity was the decision of refiners in the last three months of 1978 to concentrate on petrol production, it added.

It also cited the cutback in production of crude oil by Iran and an extremely severe U.S. winter this year as other factors.

President Carter is to review the fuel shortage at separate meetings with representatives of the oil industry and consumer groups today and tomorrow, White House officials said.

They said he wanted information about bottlenecks in production, refining and distribution and the extent of petrol shortages predicted for the summer.

Yesterday, Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said drivers might face another month of tight fuel supplies in June because of announced cutbacks by some oil companies.

Rhodesia: Arrests mark official end of white domination

SALISBURY, May 31 (R) -- Eighty-eight years of outright white domination in Rhodesia came to an end at midnight tonight when Bishop Abel Muzorewa's black majority government took over from the outgoing white Premier Ian Smith.

But shortly before the appointment of the bishop's 17-man cabinet yesterday, police arrested several prominent officials of the only legal black opposition party to the new government.

Bishop Muzorewa has named five whites for ministerial posts, among them Mr. Smith who becomes minister without portfolio. The new premier reserved for himself the key war ministries of combined operations and defence.

But the announcement of the new cabinet was soured when the Rev. Njabini Sithole's faction of the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU) said eight of its officials had been arrested in dawn sweeps by police.

The arrests of the ZANU-Sithole officials, including Deputy Secretary General Tobias Chizemba, were made while the party was still formally a member of the transitional government. It is boycotting the coalition led by Bishop Muzorewa because it alleges his election victory was rigged.

Police declined to give details of the arrests. One ZANU official was led from party headquarters in Salisbury in handcuffs. Informal sources said they believed alleged criminal and not political offences were involved.

But ZANU-Sithole spokesman James Dziva said: "We regard it as a political move by the incoming administration to harass our supporters. We think it will be counter-productive, especially overseas. It is a sad start to the new administration."

Another shock for Rhodesians yesterday was the announcement of a 20 per cent rise in the price of petrol, which is already strictly rationed. Ministers said it would have a marked effect on the cost of living and the balance of payments.

From midnight the country's name will be changed to Zimbabwe Rhodesia. The new government will base its case for international recognition and support in its war with Patriotic Front guerrillas on claims that it is a democratic regime supported by the majority of Rhodesia's seven million blacks and 230,000 whites.

Industrialised countries, World Bank agree on 'conditional' aid for Turkey

PARIS, May 31 (R) -- Major industrialised countries and the World Bank agreed yesterday on an aid package for Turkey totalling more than $1.45 billion. The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) announced.

But OECD Secretary General Emile van Lennep told a Paris press conference that the aid was conditional on Turkey concluding a new standby agreement with the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

Informal sources said in Washington last week that Turkey was unhappy with such terms and that Turkish Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit still rejected IMF proposals for a substantial devaluation of the Turkish lira.

"I am, however, very hopeful that an agreement will be found soon between Turkey and the IMF," Mr. Van Lennep said. The financial rescue operation for the battered Turkish economy was worked out when an OECD mission visited Turkey last week, informed sources said.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt first proposed an assistance programme for Turkey at the Guadeloupe summit in January, also attended by the leaders of the United States, France and Britain.

An OECD statement said commercial banks were expected to provide loans to Turkey of $400 million, and the World Bank will add loans of $150 million.

Soon after the new agreements are signed, the commercial banks will allow Turkey to top up existing loans by $400 million.

Turkey will also be given more time to redeem convertible Turkish lira deposits of about $2 billion.

Informal sources said the assistance was to be considered separately from aid also being sought by Turkey from the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

But sources in Washington said last week it appeared any pledges by Western countries in OECD would be conditional on Turkey accepting the terms of an IMF programme to revive its economy.

Turkey is beset by soaring inflation and a huge external trade deficit. According to Turkish officials, the country's outstanding external debt, including interest payments totalled $19 billion in March.

Turkish Finance Minister Ziya Muezzinoglu told a press conference after yesterday's meeting that his country's current account deficit for this year was now expected to reach about $1.9 billion.

Original estimates had put the figure at $1.5 billion but the bill had increased mainly due to rising oil prices, he said.

Mr. Muezzinoglu said Turkey's external debt was about $12 billion of which approximately half was to short-term major donors in the OECD special action programme.

West Germany, the United States, France, Japan, Britain, Switzerland, Italy and the Netherlands all contributed to the aid package. Smaller amounts are being provided by Austria, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Denmark and Finland.

Libyan Jamahiriyah: 'Republic of Masses'

By Hugh Paim
TRIPOLI, Libya, May 31 -- "We consider government is an instrument of dictatorship. Governments must disappear."

The speaker is not some wild-eyed student anarchist, but Libyan leader Muammar Qadhafi, probably the world's only head of state whose life's ambition is to eliminate his own job.

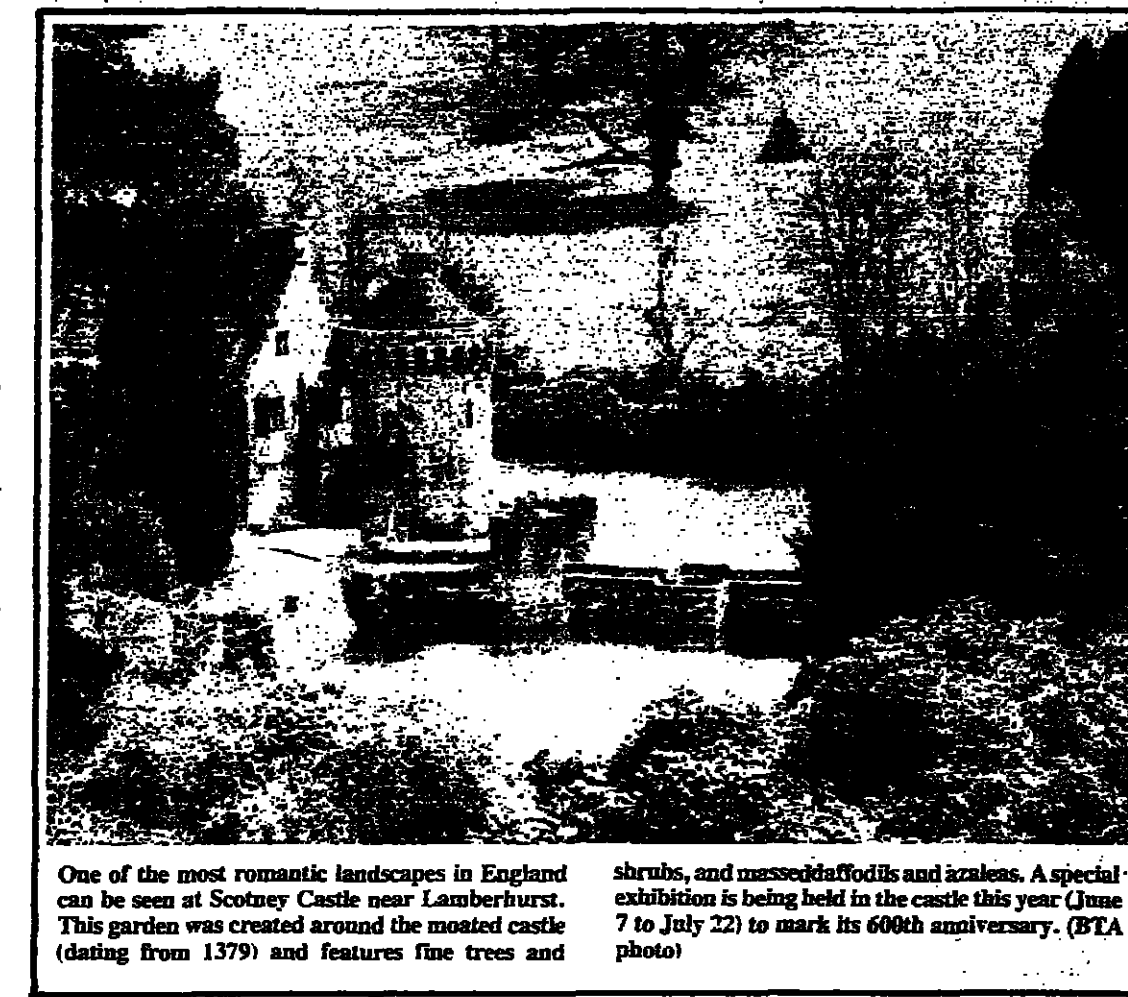

Ten years after leading a bloodless revolution which ousted Libya's monarchy, Colonel Qadhafi refused to be called president or head of government -- or even to promote himself to general.

"I accept the title of 'leader of the revolution' but I do not lead with authority. I don't issue decisions or laws -- my job is to enable the masses to govern themselves," he told Reuters in a recent interview.

In proof of this, Colonel Qadhafi has given up all his official posts, has disbanded the military command council which led the revolution and has proclaimed Libya the world's first jamahiriyah -- a term of his own coining meaning "republic of the masses".

He remains, he says, the revolution's guardian and spiritual caretaker, working to put into practice the ideas of his Green Book, a slim volume which he believes contains "the theory of tomorrow for all the world."

The theory starts from the premise that voting for a party or candidate every five years or so is a pretty poor substitute for democracy. "Representation is fraud," says the Green Book in one of the slogans with which it abounds.

One of the most romantic landscapes in England can be seen at Scotney Castle near Lamberhurst. This garden was created around the moated castle (dating from 1379) and features fine trees and shrubs, and massed daffodils and azaleas. A special exhibition is being held in the castle this year (June 7 to July 22) to mark its 600th anniversary. (BTA photo)

After 'patching up' relations with Kenya Tanzania holds talks with Zaire

ARUSHA, Tanzania, May 31 (R) -- Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere is meeting President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire today after spending yesterday patching up relations with neighbouring Kenya.

Dr. Nyerere and Kenya's President Daniel Arap Moi had three hours of talks yesterday in this north Tanzanian town and took the first important steps towards improving their troubled relations following the break-up of the East African Community two-and-a-half years ago.

President Mobutu's visit is unconnected with Mr. Moi's trip, according to authoritative sources.

Western diplomats in Dar es Salaam said President Mobutu wants to shore up relations with neighbouring states following the ousting of his one-time ally, Uganda's Idi Amin.

One senior Western envoy said: "Zaire's economy is in a shambles. Mobutu is feeling isolated since Amin's downfall and is trying to make friends, even with his old enemies."

Relations between socialist Tanzania and the autocratic Western-backed President Mobutu probably improved after last year's rapprochement between the Zaire leader and President Agostinho Neto of Angola. Dr. Nyerere is ally in the front confronting Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

But a wide gulf remains between them, not only over their different philosophies but also over their relations with South Africa.

Increasing economic dependence on South Africa, which provides Zaire with food, technology, investment and skilled manpower, meant that President Mobutu was drawn into a tacit alliance.

That position may now be modified since Zaire's normalisation of relations with Angola has meant it can now send its copper along the Benguela railway to the Angolan port of Lobito instead of through South Africa.

King of Nepal appoints new prem as anti-government incidents continue

KATMANDU, May 31 (R) -- King Birendra of Nepal yesterday appointed Surya Bahadur Thapa as prime minister after more than a month of anti-government demonstrations in which 23 people died.

The king accepted the recommendation of the national Panchayat (legislature) for Mr. Thapa's appointment.

Mr. Thapa, who has previously served as premier, will have the delicate task of overseeing a referendum ordered by the king to find out what kind of political system the people of this Himalayan kingdom desire.

World New Briefs

Quake hits Indonesian island killing at least

JAKARTA, May 31 (R) -- At least 22 people were killed and hundreds injured after strong earthquakes rocked Lombok east of Java, Indonesian officials said today. More than 1,000 houses, including 15 mosques, were badly damaged or destroyed. Powerful quakes yesterday. Officials said it was impossible to give full casualty figures as reports of fresh tremors were still coming in. Communications at many places were disrupted. In Lombok, roads were buried under landslides and bridges collapsed. Lombok Island, near the holiday resort of Bali, has been hit by earthquakes at least three times in the past two weeks which caused extensive damage but no deaths. The three shocks since yesterday left wide breaches in the ground and in one place a 20-kilometre area sank leaving a gaping hole.

Ioannides to lead Greek Cypriot delegation

NICOSIA, May 31 (R) -- Government Minister George Ioannides was named today as head of the Greek Cypriot delegation opening here on June 15 on the problems of this divided island. Today's government announcement ended long speculation over the appointment. Mr. Ioannides, 57, a law veteran cabinet minister, is expected to be acceptable to all Greek Cypriot political factions because he belongs to none. The intercommunal talks, according to an agreement reached this month at a summit meeting between President Spyros Kyprianou and Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash, will continue until a solution is found enabling the two communities to live together in peace. The island has been divided since the Turkish invasion in 1974.

Italian envoy murdered in Australia

HOBART, Tasmania, May 31 (R) -- Italy's honorary vice consul in Tasmania was murdered with a shotgun today by an Italian citizen who had been representing Italian interests in Australia's smallest state for 16 years, was blasted by both a shotgun and a handgun. The victim, Dr. Bini, was shot in the chest in a west Hobart suburb. The middle-aged Italian was trying to return to Italy to see his sick father, but was stopped by the police. Dr. Bini, who ran a travel agency, had been man's home on official business to get a passport document to the trip to Italy. An Italian Embassy spokesman said the suggestion of a political motive for the killing. "We do not know the exact reason yet. It just seems to be one of those irrational things."

S. Africa bans film about Rhodesian war

JOHANNESBURG, May 31 (R) -- A film about the Rhodesian guerrilla war, due to have its world premiere in Johannesburg next month, has been banned from cinemas in South Africa. The grounds, a film distribution company said yesterday, are "Game for Violence" starring Richard Harris and Richard Gere, was shot mainly in South Africa and was to have its world premiere on June 22. The film distribution company said it meant that the film had been banned by government censors. It was a threat to state security. The film has been deemed a threat to state security. The film has been deemed a threat to state security. The film has been deemed a threat to state security.

King of Nepal appoints new prem as anti-government incidents continue

KATMANDU, May 31 (R) -- King Birendra of Nepal yesterday appointed Surya Bahadur Thapa as prime minister after more than a month of anti-government demonstrations in which 23 people died.

The king accepted the recommendation of the national Panchayat (legislature) for Mr. Thapa's appointment.

Mr. Thapa, who has previously served as premier, will have the delicate task of overseeing a referendum ordered by the king to find out what kind of political system the people of this Himalayan kingdom desire.

He succeeds Prime Minister Kirtinidhi Bista who resigned on May 25 after his government was widely criticised for its handling of student agitation over political reform.

The king decided on the referendum to take the steam out of a worsening situation after Katmandu suffered its worst riots in recent history a week ago.

Anti-government incidents were still being reported from various parts of Nepal.

Four people were reported killed Tuesday when police opened fire to disperse a crowd attacking an agricultural centre in Surkhet, western Nepal. The official death toll for the past few weeks of violence is 23, but unofficial reports claim more than doubled the figure.

Mr. Thapa was prime minister from January 1965 to April 1972. He was four legislative members for criticism Prime Minister Bista.

At the time, Mr. Thapa was still in power a trapped, with looking at personal interests and not attempting to solve the problems of the landless peasants released in October 1972.

Paris hit by 2nd bomb attack in past month

PARIS, May 31 (R) -- Twenty-one bombs exploded at banks and public buildings in Paris early today, but no one was reported injured, police said. It was the second major bomb attack in the French capital in the past month.

Police said anonymous callers claiming to represent the Corsican National Liberation Front (FLNC) called radio stations to claim responsibility for the bombings.

On May 2, seven bombs exploded outside unmanned police stations, shops, a bank, a garage and administrative offices. Then, a previously unknown group called "Coordinated Revolutionary Action" claimed responsibility.

Today's attacks occurred between 2:30 and three a.m. The bombs were generally small and were placed in various Paris and suburban districts, police said.

On May 7, 27 bombs exploded on the Mediterranean island of Corsica, coinciding with the third anniversary of the FLNC. But no one claimed responsibility for them. The FLNC claimed responsibility for a total of 34 explosions, none of them causing any casualties, in France and Corsica in March.

Founded in 1976, the FLNC has been conducting a sometimes violent campaign for autonomy for Corsica. A group of alleged Corsican autonomists are due to appear before France's state security court in the near future.

'Republic of Masses'

Colonel Muammar Qadhafi: Leader of the Libyan revolution.

In Libya today, most of the private sector of trade is disappearing, to be replaced by workers' cooperatives. The country's growing industry and agriculture work along the same lines.

take the offered partner. For centuries a happy ground for invaders, Libya has been success subjects of Phoenicians, Romans, Vandals, Arabs, and others.

The rise of modern Libya coincided with the discovery of oil in the space of 20 years. Millions of Libyans have found between a poor and a rich and masters of a fate.

Col. Qadhafi has aimed to end oil and petroleum. His idea has not always been "Libyan freedom" but "Libyan decent housing, education, and health care, and the oil-Saudi world of a political power."
